ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A pocket knife having at least one pull-out cutting tool or blade, provided on at least one side with a lateral covering covering said knife, and at least three blockable assembly axes which hold together the knife or the cutting tool in a pull-out or retracted position. A weighing element is arranged inside the pocket knife. Said element can be extracted about at least one of the axes or at least one other axis and/or is displaceably mounted during weighing. The weighing element is actively connected to a transmitting device in order to transmit the weight that is to be measured to a measuring sensor.

REMARKS/ARGUMENTS

This Supplemental Amendment is being submitted to correct the form of the Abstract of the Disclosure pursuant to the telephone conference today with the Examiner.
